1. After a trip to the [REDACTED] you requested that we gather together some materials which would offer help to the small Cartography Unit [REDACTED] which is in a transition period between a small shop and a larger operation.

2. Cartography Division has gotten together some excellent materials for transmission [REDACTED]. These include sample booklets of symbols, a type-guide book, a color-guide book, and a book on plastic and stick-up -- the latter being especially useful in indicating sources for various kinds of products used in cartographic work. The other items included concern photo-print proofing, ozalid proofing, and water-color proving.

3. After [REDACTED] Cartography has had an opportunity to review and assimilate the information or ideas included in these materials, we shall be very happy to answer any specific technical or operating questions which they may wish to pose. If you would suggest to them in your transmittal letter the opportunity to place with us specific subjects or questions, I feel that this would be a far better utilization of our manpower than to undertake the further preparation of materials which may not be of interest to them at all.
